Huge Wedding Cake by Pankey's Displayed At Harrisburg Nat'l

DISPLAY: Take 45 red roses, 32 swans and turtledoves, a bride and groom, some real frosting and some inside material and you've got the super wedding cake now on display in the lobby of the Harrisburg National bank.

Nope, there ain't no wedding comin' up down at the bank that I know of, but the cake is there. It's the exhibit of the Pankey bakery which has baked fine since 1909.

Lowden Pankey worked a day and a half on the masterpiece which graces the lobby. Go and see the massive, intricate specimen and see for yourself. It'll be in the bank this week and next. Next week, I learned, there'll be some added attractions.

THE BANK began the innovation of letting its customers show their wares to the public in the bank lobby last May. Two weeks time is given and all dates have been taken through this year, with a few booked for 1957. The businesses can show any items they desire and can change them as often as they wish during the period.

First exhibitor was the General Telephone Co. There followed Davent's Jewelry store, Skaggs Pharmacy, Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Southeastern Illinois Gas Co., Montgomery Ward, Rainbow's drug store, Woolworth's, Stricklin-Taylor, Fashion Palace and the Met-calf studio.

Roscoe Metcalf had an unusually fine display of portraits the two weeks before Pankey's moved in the cake. He showed in color a number of his finest works, which won him first place blue ribbon awards in shows of national prominence.

Yet to show this year are Craggs-DeVilz, Arensman's, Winkelman's and Archie Abney.

JUST AS BIG but a work of Mother Nature is the massive begonia at the Melvin Mitchell home at 118 South Water street in Gaskins City.

The gigantic piece of vegetation is planted in the tub part of a washing machine and it stands more than six feet in height. It is loaded with leaves and red flowers and is the biggest begonia I believe I ever saw.

Carmi Group Charges Illegal Use of Utility Money by Mayor and Council

CARMI, Ill. — A group of Carmi residents formally charged yesterday that city utilities money was illegally used to pay general city obligations, in a civil lawsuit filed in White county circuit court by Atty. Trafton Dennis of Harrisburg.

Dennis filed the complaint for the newly-formed Civic Improvement Association of Carmi, and it asked for an injunction to keep Mayor A. J. (Gus) Brandt and the city council from diverting any more utility money to the city treasury.

The complaint also charges there has been no separate account set up to show the funds have been diverted.

By using the funds for city expenses, the complaint contends, the council has been able to keep real estate taxes low and the resulting tax setup is unfair.

The group also charges there has not been enough money left to improve the utility plants or even keep them in good working order.

As a result, the complaint charges, power is turned off at certain periods of the day and water is inadequate, both as to quantity and purity. The City of Carmi owns both the power and water system.

113 Canadian Miners Trapped in Coal Gas Explosion; 13 are Dead

Billie the Goat Joins Nellie at Humane Shelter

Nellie the goat has a companion, Billie the goat, at the Harrisburg Humane shelter today.

Things started Halloween night. Pranksters staked Billie in the yard of the Wayne Kerr home, 905 South McKinley. The Kerrs didn't know to whom it belonged.

They kept it in the back yard yesterday, hoping the owner would show up.

The telephone rang incessantly yesterday, and every time Mrs. Kerr picked up the receiver she would hear a baa, plus some smart-aleck remarks.

This morning, since nobody had claimed it, the Humane society custodian picked up the goat and put it in the pen with Nellie, to remain until it is identified and claimed.

UN General Assembly Approves U.S. Resolution for Ceasefire in Egypt

Canadian Official Asks Conference for Overall Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly overwhelmingly approved early today an American-sponsored resolution demanding that Britain, France and Israel cease their fight against Egypt.

During the marathon debate on this resolution, Canadian Foreign Minister Lester Pearson urged that the U. N. carry its struggle for peace even further. With the backing of Britain he suggested that a conference be called to bring about an overall Palestine settlement and that a U. N. police force be set up to keep the peace until such a final settlement is reached.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said he supported both of Pearson's ideas after the General Assembly had approved the American resolution on an immediate cease fire in the present conflict.

Vote Was 64-5

"I want to emphasize my complete agreement," Dulles said adding that he also expressed the feeling of President Eisenhower.

In London, Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden refused to answer opposition Labor Party demands in the House of Commons for an immediate answer to the U. N. demand.

The resolution passed in the pre-dawn hours this morning called upon Israel to withdraw its troops promptly from Egyptian soil and urged Britain and France to halt the movement of military forces and arms in the area.

The vote was 64 to 5, with 6 abstentions. Britain, France, Israel, Australia and New Zealand voted against the resolution. Belgium, Canada, Laos, The Netherlands, Portugal and South Africa abstained.

But the resolution is only a recommendation — the General Assembly unlike the Security Council, has no power to enforce the demand. And both Britain and France served notice they would reject the resolution because it "does not meet the situation."

She leaves her parents, a twin sister, Debbie, a brother, Pat, 6 years, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Purdue, of Harrisburg.

Mrs. Purdue is the former Margie Carroll.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon in Danville at the Barrick funeral home.

Egyptians Warned Invasion Soon

Air Force Wiped Out, Anglo-French Command Says

LONDON (AP)—The Anglo-French command claimed today to have wiped out the Egyptian air force. It broadcast warnings to the Egyptian people indicating that invasion of the Suez Canal Zone was imminent.

Britain's Cyprus Radio warned Arab listeners that "our warships will disembark tanks and guns on Egyptian soil."

A communique issued at Anglo-French expeditionary headquarters on Cyprus named land, sea and air commanders for the final operation.

British and French jet fighters and bombers from Cyprus and aircraft carriers off both ends of the canal diverted some of their attacks on Egyptian airfields to troop concentrations.

Claim Peninsula Captured

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, assuming virtual dictatorial powers in his role as military governor general, abandoned Sinai Desert positions to Israeli attackers and was concentrating his forces west of the canal for promised "total war."

Invading Israeli forces claimed to have taken over virtually the entire Sinai Peninsula, including Gaza, a city of about 40,000, and the Gaza Strip jammed with more than 200,000 Palestinian refugees. Capture of the Sinai Peninsula meant that the Israelis had taken over Egyptian territory 240 miles long and 130 miles deep at its widest point.

In addition to Gaza, the Israelis claimed to hold the vital Abu Athelia road junction, the Red Sea islands of Tirah and Senabair and the road to Port Said—a coastal route the Egyptians had planned to use as an escape route.

Knock Out Cairo Radio

An Israeli spokesman said other Israeli troops had "entered" Al Arish, 50 miles west of Gaza.

In Beirut, there were rumors that the Israelis now might be willing to accept a cease-fire.

It was the third day of round-the-clock British and French bombing of Egyptian military targets.

Rescuers Hear 'Tapping' at 3,400-foot Level

Biggest Relief Operation in Canada's History Organized

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (AP) — A rescue crew today heard "tapping" at the 3,400-foot level of a coal mine where more than 100 miners were trapped by an explosion of deadly coal gas.

So far, there is 13 known dead in the disaster that struck the mine late Thursday.

The rescue men said they rapped eight times on a compressed air pipe and received eight raps in return. Then they tapped five times and were answered by five.

They said they were not sure whether the answering taps came from above or below them. But the exchanges were regarded as a hopeful sign that some of the men caught in the disaster might still be alive.

Set Up New Hoist

Five men were killed in the explosion and two volunteers died during rescue work. Five bodies were recovered or injured in the explosion died early today.

That left 113 miners trapped below ground, making the possible toll 125.

The explosion smashed the mine equipment and crews toiled to set up a new hoist to speed their work.

George Calder, manager of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, told a reporter as dawn began to break over this bleak town of 8,000 persons "There is still hope but only a faint hope, that the men are alive."

Anxious Crowds Wait

Calder would not commit himself further. But crowds of quietly-sobbing wives and children, and old men who worked in the pits in their youth, milled around beside cranes and hoists at the pithead refusing to believe some could not be saved.

One of the biggest rescue and relief operations in Canada's history was organized soon after the initial blast shattered equipment and claimed its first victims at the No. 4 pithead.

3 Labor Agents Favor By-Pass

Business agents of two Harrisburg unions today voiced their opposition to the state's proposal for building a four-lane highway thru Harrisburg on Poplar street.

Speaking for their unions were Stanley Medley, business agent, and Elmer Grisham, assistant business agent, of Local Union 318 of the Operating Engineers and Arleigh Phillips, business agent of Local 198 of the Hod carriers and Common Laborers union.

They voiced their sentiments after a story in Wednesday's paper quoted another labor leader as saying labor backed the Poplar street project.

"We favor a by-pass of the city, chiefly because of the huge parking problem that would be created by a Poplar street four-lane highway," the three said in a statement. Under the state's proposal, there would be no parking at all on Poplar from Granger street east to Route 45.

"The streets are crowded enough now with auto drivers hunting a place to park and to keep them from parking on Poplar street would hurt business a lot," their statement continued. "The through traffic doesn't stop, anyhow, so there would be no loss of business upturn if it were to by-pass the city."

An Atomic Milestone

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

A milestone of tremendous significance was passed for the British when they recently began using the first electric power generated by atomic energy plant. It is not simply that they are the first to complete such a plant on a substantial scale nor even that they have surpassed the United States in so doing.

The real importance lies in the lift this source of energy will bring to Britain's steadily expanding power system. At the present time the demand for power in Britain is running ahead of the production of coal, the source material for the steam generating plants that have always been the chief reliance in the power field up to now.

The British have in fact been turning more and more to imported oil to fuel the steam plants but this is both costly and now risky in the light of Suez difficulties. At the completion of the second of their two new nuclear power stations, the British will be generating enough electricity by this means to supply the needs of a city of one million people. But their plans go far beyond this. British officials predict that in less than 20 years their output of electric energy from atomic sources may be double the total electricity output of all existing power stations in the country.

This means more, too, than simply keeping pace with rising British demand. Power is the great unsung factor in lifting a country's economic productivity to higher levels. Our possession of it in plentiful amounts has been one of the main reasons we have led the world in productivity—or output per man.

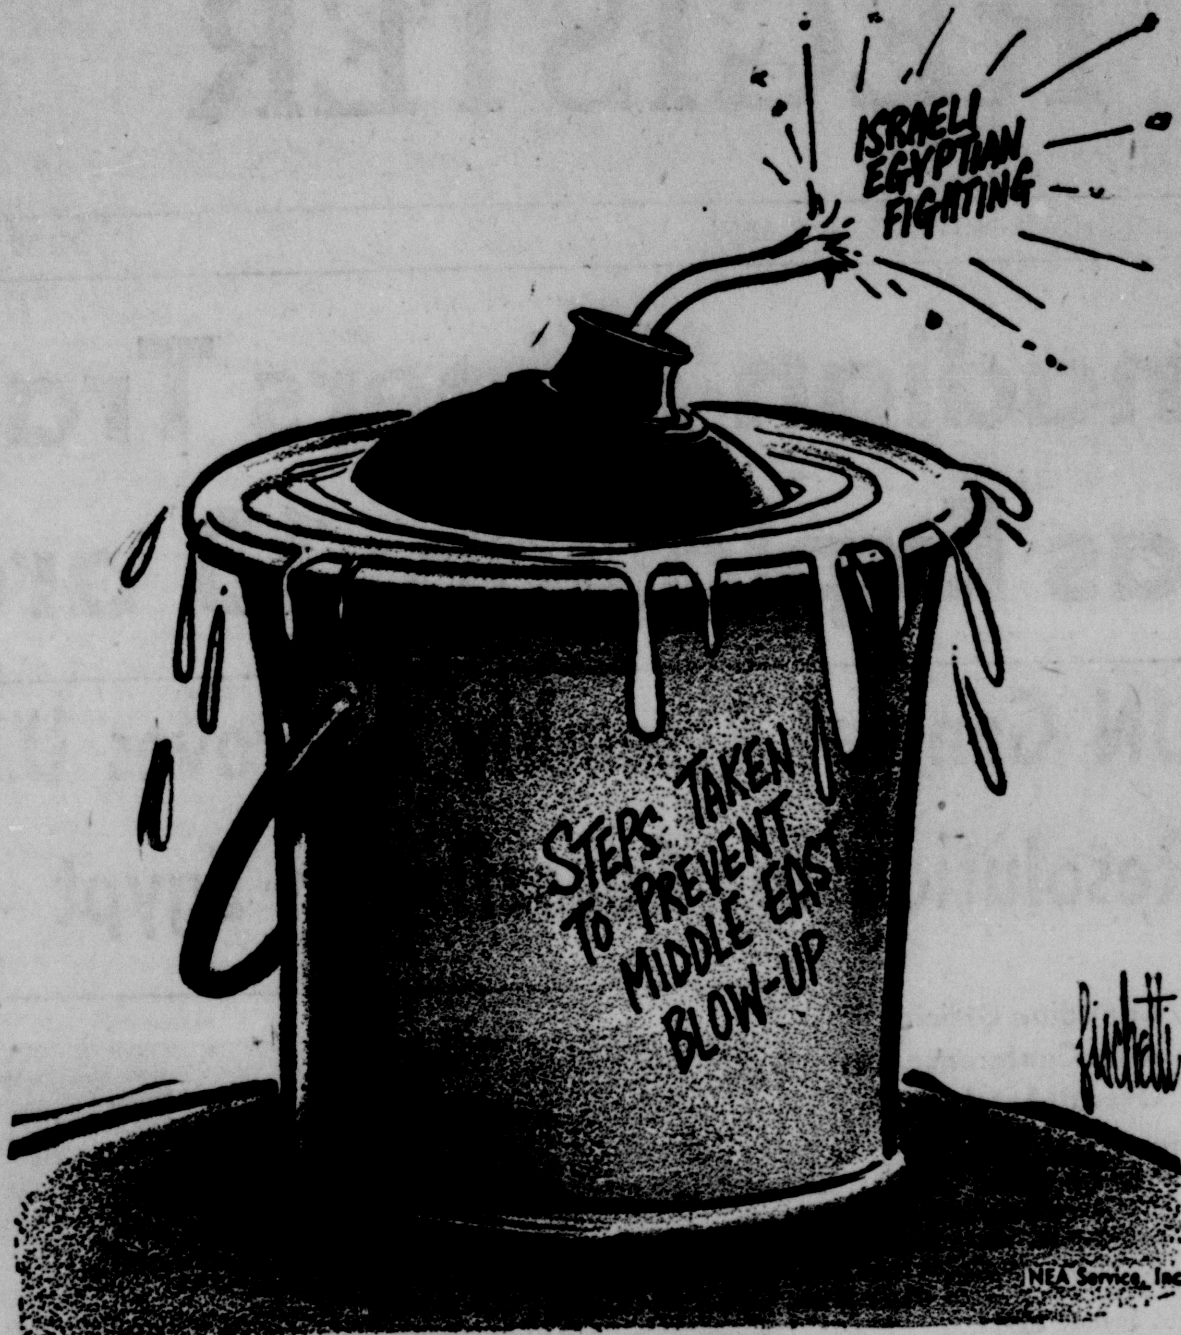

The advent of nuclear-derived electric power promises a new era of better living for Britain, and, we must hope, for Europe and the rest of the power-starved world. This first big plant is a beacon marking the door to a new epoch.

Almost—But Not Quite

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Senator "Lyn" Down Johnson is Lying Relatively Low; Joe McCarthy Lies Even Lower; Khrushchev is Too Popular With Russian People To Be Purged.

WASHINGTON. — Texas Blackout—Sen. Lyndon Johnson, who once won the nickname "Lyn" Down Lyndon, spoke for 40 minutes at a meeting of Texas Democrats at Lockhart without mentioning Stevenson's name. Only at the end, when the contributions were being added up, did he remark that this would help put Stevenson on TV. His omission of Stevenson's name was so flagrant that GOP papers in Texas commented. . . . Texas grapevine has it that Lyndon now has his eye on 1960. If one cardiac can make it, another can. . . . Recently circulated all over Texas by Lyndon forces was a reprint of an article by Holmes Ale Ander praising Johnson and knocking Stevenson. Ironical fact was that the anti-Stevenson propaganda was paid for by Stevenson money, though Adlai didn't know it. . . . Liberal Democrats in Dallas will vote for GOP Congressman Bruce Alger as a protest against Democratic candidate Henry Wade's race-baiting. It will probably elect Alger. It may also swing the state to Eisenhower. . . . Every speaker Sen. Johnson has brought to Texas has talked about the farm problem, despite the fact that Texas farmers are already rarin' to vote against Ike. . . . "Lyn" Down" confided to Bill White of the New York Times that if Ike came to Texas, Texas would go GOP. Ike took the tip, went to Texas.

McCarthyism Again — Joe McCarthy is lying low in this campaign, almost unheard of. Even the man he elected to the Senate with Texas oil money—Sen. John Butler of Maryland—is trying to forget him. . . . Out in South Dakota there's one significant piece of McCarthyism, inspired in part by Joe's old friend, Mrs. Karl Mundt, wife of the South Dakota senator. She's more pro-McCarthy than her husband. . . . For the first time in years, a Democrat, George McGovern, seems likely to win a South Dakota seat in Congress, which has caused his opponents, led by Mrs. Mundt, to dig out a twisted version of a speech he made six years ago suggesting that recognition of Red China might help to pull it out of the Soviet orbit and encourage it to do a Tito. This is now being used to paint McGovern as a Red. Mrs. Mundt and friends are spreading the impression that McGovern must be pro-Communist. . . . Funny thing is that the American aid to Tito was one of the big reasons for the current revolt behind the Iron Curtain. The same could happen to Red China. Congressional Sweepstakes — A young man who took lessons from McCarthy, Congressman Frank Bow of Ohio, faces re-election trouble. Bow is the man who wrote a speech for Senator Schoepel of Kansas, trying to put the Red smear on Oscar Chapman as secretary of the interior. The smear was so raw that the Republican policy committee took the unusual step of disavowing Schoepel. Real fact was that the senator's real secretary, Frank Bow ghost-wrote the speech that got him into trouble. . . . Bow, now a congressman from President McKinley's old district in Ohio, is faced this year by John McSweeney, popular excongressman-at-large. . . . A photograph Sen. Tom Kuchel of California would like to forget: He stands beside Artie Samish, the big liquor lobbyist now in jail, and Bill Bonelli, formerly in charge of California liquor licenses, now in serious difficulty with California authorities. It's published in the Beverage Industry News May 15, 1949. . . . One of Chapline Revercomb's biggest handicaps in staging a comeback to the Senate from West Virginia is the fact that Tom Dewey didn't want to get tagged with the Revercomb record of trying to bar worthy immigrants while blocking the deportation of three Nazis. . . . Sen. Dick Russell, Georgia Democrat, ran out on his party just before election day. He sailed for Europe. Behind The Iron Curtain—The American embassy reports from Moscow that Nikita Khrushchev has tremendous support from the Russian people, despite the Stalin critics in the Kremlin. The people are enthusiastic over Khrushchev because he has removed the iron grip of the secret police and granted them more freedom. He's such a popular hero that his Kremlin critics fear riots if he were purged. . . . By some strange coincidence, practically every exiled satellite leader now living in Washington went back to Paris just before the Polish revolt. Ex-President Mikolajczyk of Poland, who has a dairy farm in Maryland, went back to Paris ahead of the revolt. Stefan Osusky, Czechoslovak leader, went to Paris; also George Dimitrov, leader of the Peasant party in Bulgaria; also ex-Premier Ferenc Nagy, leader of the Peasant party in Hungary. Maybe they had a premonition of events to come. . . . Marshal Tito, instead of being elated, is reported to be alarmed at the Polish and Hungarian revolts. Tito believes these anti-Russian moves are premature and so violent they may backfire and force Russia to crack down savagely. There's also a suspicion he's unhappy because, if Hungary and Poland succeed, the Gomulka in Poland and Nagy in Hungary will rise to challenge his leadership in Eastern Europe. Tito was hoping that, whatever happened, it would go slowly enough so he could become undisputed boss of communism in Eastern Europe outside Russia. Ike's Congressman — A wad of money is flooding Oregon to try to elect "Generous Doug" McKay, but not much is going to show on his records. It'll be legal but deceptive. When new Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton came to Oregon to stump for McKay, his expensive TV programs and newspaper ads were paid for by the Republican state committee, not by McKay. . . . A fat 250-page book attacking Senator Morse also was paid by the GOP state committee. It's the fattest political brochure in American history. Dispersal of funds will make it look as if McKay spent little money. . . . GOP leaders, determined to elect a Republican congressman from Ike's own district around Gettysburg, are embarrassed by a local strike in the Inductive Equipment Co., at Gettysburg. Some 178 union employees, mostly women, are striking for a base wage of $1.16 an hour, and most of the ladies don't seem to like Ike. Present Gettysburg congressman is Jim Quigley, Democrat, one of the best newcomers to Washington.

120 Male Students At Southern Fold Their Tents

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Some 120 male students at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale have folded their tents in swapping five weeks of outdoor life for the comforts of civilization.

While awaiting completion of the first of six modern residence halls on campus, the students camped out 12 miles from campus in tents at the SIU camp on Little Grass Lake.

As they did their homework by the flickering light of gas lanterns, they munched hazel nuts and persimmons picked from nearby trees.

But now they're living in a world of tiled baths, steam heat, fluorescent lights and polished furniture.

U. S. to Evacuate Families Of Budapest Legation on Troop Movement Reports

BUDAPEST, Hungary (U. S. The United States decided today to evacuate wives and children of the Budapest legation personnel because of reports of Soviet troop movements and Josef Cardinal Mindszenty appealed to the West for help "in this critical situation."

The Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, released earlier this week after eight years in Communist captivity, told newsmen:

"All Hungary demands that the Russians leave the country because the Magyars want to work for themselves and for their own nation."

Even while he spoke, there were reports of strong Soviet army troop movements. The reports stirred new fears, blackouts and alerts across the revolutionary torn Hungary and its shattered capital city.

A U. S. legation source said it had been decided to evacuate the wives and children of all American personnel to the West.

Mindszenty, in his first formal news conference since his return to Budapest, called on the West and particularly the big powers to "support us politically and help us in this critical situation."

The conference came to an abrupt halt when a Hungarian newsmen asked him to comment on reports that some political groups favored him for premier.

"MAGNIFICENT PROMISES ARE ALWAYS TO BE SUSPECTED"

There appears to be a growing tendency toward advertising seemingly low bargain prices by certain radio, television, and door-to-door salesmen. The products they sell are usually made by a manufacturer unknown to you, or new-comers to drug manufacturing.

Before buying such medicines or vitamins, make certain these magnificent promises are true. Only a pharmacy is licensed, and regularly state inspected, to protect you. Usually the prices we charge for comparable quality are less.

Hubby Drills Holes In Walls to Spy, Wife Gets Divorce

PATERSON, N. J. (U. S. — Mrs. Fanny Arnone filed suit for divorce Thursday.

She charged in her suit that her husband drilled holes in the walls of their home to spy on her.

Cook County Vote Registration Down

CHICAGO (U. S. — Final tabulations reveal total registration in Cook County for the Nov. 6 election declined 81,613 from 1952 figures to 2,663,058, it was reported Thursday.

The number of voters eligible to vote in Chicago was reported by the Board of Election Commissioners to be 1,993,691, a drop of 177,104 from 1952.

Suburban registration, however, increased 95,491 to 699,367.

Sidney T. Holzman, chairman of the board, and Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett agreed the registration changes for the county were primarily due to the movement of city people to the suburbs.

persons. The meeting was sponsored by the national political science fraternity at SIU.

Scott, a lawyer, former member of the FBI and Foreign Service and a former teacher, contended that his background and experience better qualified him for the job than his opponent. He said he wants to go to Congress as "a member of Ike's team."

Gray said his opponent owns a home in Arlington, Va., paid poll tax there and that Scott's wife teachers school there. He said Scott has not been in the district enough to know its needs.

Gray said he has maintained a law office and legal residence at Metropolis since 1947, and lived in Virginia while working in Washington. Payment of poll tax is required by the state of Virginia, Scott said. He added that he has spent more time in the 25th District than Gray has.

Centralia Honors Publisher on Golden Anniversary

A whole town kept a secret, and Verne E. Joy was completely surprised on his Golden Anniversary as publisher of the Centralia Evening Sentinel Thursday night.

The event attracted nearly 400 people, including newspaper people from southern Illinois and from greater distances. Mrs. Daisy M. Seright, president of the Register Publishing Co. and Curtis Small, editor of The Daily Register were among those present.

Mr. Joy was praised for his services to Centralia as a publisher and philanthropist who has personally or through his efforts secured the library, city parks, Boy Scout camp and other civic benefits for his city.

Recognition was given to high offices he has held in national newspaper associations, he was presented a certificate of appreciation from the Junior Chamber of Commerce and was advised that a bronze plaque with his picture and a suitable citation will be placed on the Sentinel building through sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce.

Charles Wham was master of ceremonies and Hal Boyle, Associated Press columnist, was principal speaker at the event held at the Centralia VFW auditorium.

Blizzard Warnings For Plains States

By United Press
Blizzard warnings were issued early today for parts of the plains states as a large and intense snowstorm swept into the area from the Rocky Mountains.

Weathermen issued the blizzard warnings for an area including northwest Kansas, western Nebraska and western South Dakota.

Snow, drifting snow and strong northerly winds, often reaching 30 to 60 miles per hour, were producing hazardous conditions in the region.

The storm center was located over western Kansas and was expected to move northward during the day into central Nebraska.

Issue Temporary Injunction Against State Splash Guard Law

SPRINGFIELD (U. S. — A temporary injunction was issued Thursday to prevent the state from enforcing a 1955 law requiring Illinois trucks to be equipped with rear wheel splash guards.

Circuit Judge Clem Smith issued the injunction pending outcome of a legal attack on the validity of the law.

The Hoagland Transfer Co., Lincoln, has filed suit attacking the law on grounds the required splash guards are impractical to use and impossible to obtain.

Fail to Turn Off Molasses Spigot, Street is Flooded

RICHMOND, Calif. (U. S. — Enough molasses for 10 million hotcakes flooded Western Drive here Thursday.

Somebody forgot to close a spigot at the Pacific Molasses Co. and an estimated 4,000 gallons of the goo oozed out.

Pope Appeals for End to Fighting

VATICAN CITY (U. S. — Pope Pius XII appealed today for an end to fighting in the Middle East.

In a direct appeal to the leaders of the nations involved in the Suez conflict, the pontiff warned that "a war, started as a little spark, can spread into an enormous fire."

The Pope made his appeal, which did not put the blame for the Middle Eastern war on either side, in an encyclical opening a world-wide crusade of prayer for peace in the Middle East as well as Hungary.

U. S. Cuts Off All Military Supplies To Israel, Egypt

WASHINGTON (U. S. — The United States announced today that it has cut off all military shipments to Israel.

The State Department announced that a blanket order has been issued barring the shipment of any U. S. military supplies to the area of hostilities in the Middle East—including Israel and Egypt.

Actually, the order affected only Israel because no U. S. military equipment has been going to Egypt.

State Department press officer Lincoln White also announced that no new economic programs for Egypt, Israel, Jordan, or Syria are going forward now.

He said the practical effect of Middle East fighting has been to slow down or stop any economic aid shipments to the area.

Iowa State Coach Resigns

AMES, Iowa (U. S. — Iowa State refrained from naming even possible successors today for the football coach's post vacated earlier by Vince Di Francesco, who quit, then was hanged in effigy.

Di Francesco, whose teams have won but two games in the past two years and whose overall three-year record is 5-18-1, said he'll remain to finish out the season's four games.

Di Francesco made a special point of noting his resignation had nothing to do with the fact an effigy of him was hung in the center of campus today. He revealed he had resigned four days ago.

HTHS to Sponsor Adult Night Classes If Sufficient Demand

Elitis Henson, principal of the Harrisburg Township high school, announced today that the high school would again sponsor adult night classes if a sufficient demand is had for them. These classes are offered by the Division of Technical and Adult Education of Southern Illinois University.

Classes usually meet one night per week for twelve weeks. Fields in which there is a possibility of classes being offered include Beginning Sewing, Beginning Typing, Shorthand, Photography, Group Singing, Everyday Arithmetic, Business and Professional Speaking, Bookkeeping, and General Home Repair.

Adults who are interested in the classes should notify Mr. Henson by card or letter so that arrangements may be made to start classes for which there is a demand.

Austin Attacks Use of State Postage Meter on Political Letters

By United Press
Democrat Richard B. Austin charged today that State Fair General Manager Strother G. Jones used a state postage meter to stamp letters urging votes for President Eisenhower and Gov. William G. Stratton.

Jones first denied the charge, then admitted it but said he had reimbursed the state with his own money.

Austin said at Rock Island and Moline Thursday that Jones' use of the postage meter for political purposes was the "latest example of misuse of taxpayers' money by members of Stratton's team."

Assumes Responsibility
Jones said "I want to take the entire responsibility for these letters myself. Gov. Stratton knew nothing about them."

Jones said he had used the postage meter "because it was the fastest way to handle" the mailing of the letters. He said he paid back to the state $120 for postage on letters and that the letters were printed at his own expense.

Stratton made no comment on the incident.

Austin also charged state employees, including those under Civil Service, were being pressured into taking part in Stratton's campaign and were being asked to call at least 10 persons asking for votes for Stratton.

Edward G. Pree Jr., Stratton's administrative assistant, said state employees probably were using the telephone to campaign for Stratton, but that "we have never asked any Civil Service worker to take part in the campaign" and that no state employees were doing political work during working hours.

Egyptians Warned Invasion Imminent

Today, British twin-jet Canberras knocked out the Cairo Radio transmitter.

Communications said bombers and rocket-firing fighters of the joint command had put more than 200 Egyptian planes out of action on the ground, effectively crippling the Egyptian air force. The French Defense Ministry said the "essential destruction of Egyptian airpower could be considered complete."

Egypt said she had downed a total of nine British and French planes.

Cairo communiques said the British planes had sunk one ship midway along the Suez Canal and another at the southern entrance, blocking the waterway to shipping.

United Press correspondent Peter Webb at Port Said, the canal's northern terminus, confirmed that the canal was closed.

The joint command on Cyprus charged that the Egyptians themselves had "partially" blocked the canal by deliberately sinking a former U. S. landing craft.

There was no direct indication as to what "H-hour" the Anglo-French force had set for the invasion, but both air and sea landings appeared imminent.

Air observation spotted heavy Egyptian troop movements at both ends of the 101-mile-long canal, indicating the Egyptians would meet any landings there with bitter force.

Egypt's Arab neighbors continued in various stages of alert but there still was no indication they would enter the fight.

But Syria joined Egypt today in breaking relations with Britain and France.

Say 144 Egyptian Planes Downed
An unofficial Israeli estimate placed Egyptian casualties at 5,000 killed or wounded. Israeli casualties were estimated at "not over 100."

raises received by 35,000 Chicago city employees because he sponsored legislation for the city sales tax and other bills which provided the money for the raises.

In the race for the U. S. Senate, Republican incumbent Everett M. Dirksen was grounded by heavy fog at Chicago. He had planned to fly to meetings in Jerseyville, Granite City and Alton.

Democrat Richard Stengel at Chicago pledged his support of federal legislation to tighten up banking laws and end what he called "Hodgeism."

Hillcroft Farm Purebred Shorthorn Herd to Be Dispersed at Auction

The well known Hillcroft Farm purebred Shorthorn herd will be dispersed at auction at the farm near Eldorado, Tuesday, Nov. 20. The name Hillcroft has a long and famous history in the Shorthorn breed. This herd was founded in 1935 by Dr. E. M. Travelstead, Harrisburg. In 1955, Dr. Travelstead sold his farm to H. J. Meyer, and held a dispersion of the cattle, which was attended by cattlemen from twelve states, with the cattle being dispersed as far as Texas. Mr. Meyer was the leading buyer of this sale purchasing 15 lots and the senior herd sire, Hillcroft Good News.

Recently, Mr. Meyer sold this farm and now the cattle are to be sold. There are four bulls and twenty female lots in the Hillcroft group, including many of the imported cows and their offspring, selected by Dr. Travelstead in Scotland.

To round out the sale, Charles Meacham & Sons, Morganfield, Ky., will consign four bulls and 14 females from their famous Korandale herd. Other consignments will be made by Leo Luckett, Waverly, Ky., Thomas Waller, Paducah, Ky., and Lloyd Saxe, Albion, Ill.

The Hillcroft herd recently loomed into further national prominence when a heifer purchased in the dispersion was shown to the grand champion-ship of the 1955 American Royal at Kansas City and a first place at the International Livestock

Show Chicago, by its new owner L. E. Mathers & Son, Mason City, Ill. The sire of this heifer, Hillcroft Good News, her dam, and two full sisters are all owned by Mr. Meyer and will be sold in this dispersal.

The sale will start at 12:30 p. m. with C. D. Swaffar, Tulsa, Oklahoma, auctioneer.

New Book Says Coal Industry Most Important Source of Energy

WASHINGTON — National Coal Association has published a 164-page illustrated book in color, "Bituminous Coal Trends 1956," which asserted that "in this energy-conscious world, the U. S. bituminous coal industry grows ever more important as a source of supply."

The book notes developments in the United States and elsewhere since 1946 which indicate an increasing higher demand for energy because of growing populations, industrial expansion and greater consumer-goods consumption.

"The scale of development of energy supplies is so broad that some observers conclude that the world has entered a Second Industrial Revolution," Trends said. "The increasing world population exerts the principal pressure for producing more energy. Just to supply the millions of new people in the world each year with the sample necessities of food shelter and clothing requires huge increases in production and consumption of energy."

Trends pointed out that World War II planted in wide areas of the globe, including some of the most remote, considerable knowledge of the machine age of Western civilization based on the utilization of great quantities of power.

Continuing Problem
"In the years since, we have many landmarks which show that the need and desire for energy is a continuing problem," Trends said.

"Bituminous Coal Trends 1956" is an effort to record and document the changing patterns in the coal industry, to point up coal's place as a vital energy source, and to serve as a reference to those who seek to interpret the progress of industry. It is the successor to Bituminous Coal Annual, the sixth and final edition of which was issued in 1953.

For the first time, the National Coal Association's book attempts a birdseye view of world and United States energy needs, and the coal industry's role in meeting them.

"The most significant trend of our time is the rising world demand for energy," Trends said. "How we meet that demand could determine the course of civilization in the last half of this 20th Century."

"The problem of energy production and consumption has thrust itself insistently forward in world affairs since the end of World War II. It is a major concern for many nations."

Trends emphasized coal's dominance as a source of energy today. By means of an exclusive chart, it shows that bituminous coal contributes 37.3 per cent of the nation's fuel and power consumption in direct competition with natural gas, petroleum products and hydro.

Upward Trends

Taking a look at coal's markets, Trends said:

"Few, if any, industries have undergone the changes in markets experienced by the bituminous coal industry in the post-World War II era. Tremendous declines occurred in the use of coal for railroad fuel—biggest coal market until 1949—and for home heating. The decline was speeded by huge imports of residual oil and rapid expansion of natural gas pipelines under favorable legislation and administration.

"On the positive side, big increases occurred in the demand for coal by electric utilities for the generation of electric power, by the steel industry, and for exports to countries abroad with an appetite for energy that outran their own capacity to produce. Upward trends in these and other coal markets are expected to be maintained."

Single Copies Free

In addition to chapters on energy and markets, Trends contains chapters on production, transportation, labor, safety, research and reserves.

Forty-five photographs illustrate modern production, safety and transportation methods in the increasingly mechanized coal industry. These are supplemented by 50 statistical tables and more than 30 graphics illuminating progress of the industry and trends.

First run of Trends is 20,000 copies which will be distributed free to the industry, members of Congress, public officials. The cost is $1 per copy for quantity lots, single copies free upon request.

WHAT'S in the FUTURE FOR SOUTHERN ILLINOIS?

The Future of Southern Illinois May Well Depend Upon Who You Send to the U. S. Congress

The job to restore Southern Illinois to its rightful place in our National Government has been started. Two years ago it was the "Forgotten" spot in Washington because it was neglected in Congress for 14 years.

I believe that this JOB can be done quicker by getting our National Government to help us develop our Natural resources. In that way we will have something to attract and induce industry to locate in Southern Illinois. With that thought in mind, I asked for and was appointed to the Committee on Public Works of the U. S. House of Representatives, where I have been getting some concrete results. The newspapers have carried hundreds of stories reporting the progress we have made in only 20 months. With your help, I convinced the Government and the Chief Executive of our United States, that these are meritorious and worthy projects, but they are only a started in MY GOAL or Program.

I will not be satisfied as long as I am your Congressman until we have canalized Big Muddy river with industries located on its banks and on the banks of its tributaries, with industries near the Saline river basin, and some more diversified industries in the smaller towns of this District. I want to see the Distressed areas Bill passed so smaller industries can get financial help to locate in our communities that have unemployment or wish to have a manufacturing plant located there. It's not impossible. We pay Federal taxes the same as the people in California, Texas, Kentucky, Colorado, and other states. I believe we are entitled to our just share of Federal assistance. Working men want pay checks not relief checks. Our farmers want prices for their grain, live stock and other produce over the cost of production. They must get such prices if they are going to save the family size farm and if they are to have modern equipment to work with.

Let's look ahead and build "Little Egypt" for our boys and girls of today, who tomorrow or next year can find a job here in industry, after they have finished their schooling or can continue on the farm and prosper. We have good people in Southern Illinois, nice churches, excellent schools, skilled and unskilled labor, fine minds among our educators, our industrialists have the know-how, keen businessmen and stable and intelligent farmers.

Let's all pull together and make this Congressional District once more the most attractive, comfortable and enjoyable place to work, rear our families and enjoy God's many blessings.

I will continue to fight for and vote for legislation that will benefit all the people of this District, regardless of party affiliations.

I always have and always will appreciate your vote and influence.

Patient Explains What Tuberculosis Tax Law Means to Those It Has Helped

EDITOR'S NOTE: Saline county voters will have the opportunity of extending the Tuberculosis Law in this county at the polls next Tuesday. They will not be voting on a new tax but for extending the program that has been in effect for years. This program has been indispensable in the care of tuberculous programs, and the following letter explains what it has meant to one of the many persons it has helped.

Dear Friend:

I, as one of your county tuberculosis patients who spent almost two years in the tuberculosis sanatorium and still take the drugs, and am on very limited activity, want you to know that I am very thankful that we did have a tuberculosis tax fund in the county. I am sure that there are many that feel the same way. In the coming election we are going to have to vote again for this tax fund if we are to continue to have this fund available. It will not be a new tax and the amount is very small, cannot exceed seven and one-half cents on one hundred dollars valuation. We have a National and State Tuberculosis Association but if they are to be of much help to our county we, as voters, must make this county tax available.

Have you ever thought how much is might mean to you if one case of positive tuberculosis is neglected in your community, in your school, your church or, yes, even in your home. Tuberculosis is a communicable disease and is spread by someone who has tuberculosis. It is possible that a person can be a tuberculosis carrier long before they realize it, unless you have your chest x-rayed. Our state sends the x-ray unit into our county and we are given this privilege. It is our duty to society to take advantage of this service which we pay for even if we don't use it. It would be almost useless to go this far though if there wasn't a county fund available to give the needed treatment to cure the patient.

According to statistics less than five percent of the people that have tuberculosis are financially able to pay for their own treatment. It isn't possible to get hospital insurance that will cover tuberculosis. Our State has built and is still building and staffing fine hospitals but if we do not have this county tax fund we can derive very little good from them. We are fortunate to have one of the best hospitals in the State at Mt. Vernon. It means a lot to a patient to be so close to home. Let us hope you never directly need the help of the tuberculosis fund but then I don't feel you can truthfully say it hasn't helped me.

It is true that the death rate from tuberculosis has dropped around forty per cent in the last ten years but the rate of new cases found hasn't dropped nearly so fast. It is the better methods and the use of the new drugs in treating the cases that have caused the drop in death. This will eventually lead to fewer cases if we have the funds to treat the patients that contact it, but it is too early to slack up. There are lots of people giving of their time to our Tuberculosis problem. Let's not tie their hands by voting down this tax fund. I would like to say thanks again.

Yours truly,
Pauline Alvey

Announce Program To Seek Causes Various Illnesses

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Public Health Service today announced a sweeping, multi-million-dollar program to find the causes of cerebral palsy, mental retardation, and some forms of blindness and deafness.

It said the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness plans to spend more than 1 million dollars annually for the next 10 to 20 years on the big project.

As a starter, Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney announced that more than $700,000 has been awarded to Yale and Brown universities for an intensive four-year investigation.

Captive kangaroos are easily taught to box mer in exhibitions. Main problem is teaching them to forego their terrible kick.

County Line

Several from this community attended the carnival at Galatia high school. The highlight of the program was electing the king and queen for the year of 1956 and '57.

Hindenburg's Hulk

The Hindenburg, last and largest of the giant German zeppelins, provided stateroom accommodations for 50 passengers, in addition to a cargo capacity of 10 tons.

Mr. and Mrs. Voter of the 25th District:

Let's Take A Closer Look At Mr. Gray's "Record":

CLAIMED:

1. "Helped pass the gigantic highway construction program: As a member of the House Committee on Public Works, helped write the Federal Highway Construction Act of 1956 and worked for its passage. THE BILL PROVIDES SPECIFICALLY A NEW 4-LANE EXPRESSWAY THROUGH MY CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS."

2. "Helped pass veterans' benefits bill in the House: Introduced H. R. 6153, granting all World War I veterans $100 per month pension. A COMPANION MEASURE PASSED THE HOUSE, allowing a pension for World War I veterans and increasing by 10 per cent the amount of compensation being paid to service connected disability veterans. Due to lack of support by the Senate and the rush for adjournment, the House-passed measure did not reach the floor of the Senate for vote."

3. "Secured approval of $4,300,000 for Devil's Kitchen Dam project: This includes the construction of the dam, public beach, boat dock, and a complete network of access roads; picnic areas, parking facilities, and the long-sought leasing of cabin sites. Obtained $2 million in cash with which to start the project. This is the first action on this project in 14 years."

4. "Secured passage of the fluorspar bill: Introduced H. R. 11622, a companion measure to S. 3982, which provides for the stockpiling of 250,000 tons of acid-grade fluorspar at $53 per ton. Helped obtain $19 million appropriation with which to carry out the provisions of the bill."

5. "Secured passage of bill giving flour and cornmeal to recipients of Government surplus food: CO-SPONSORED H. R. 2851, a bill directing the Commodity Credit Corporation to grind up wheat and corn into meal for distribution to needy persons receiving Government surplus food."

6. "Supported farm program: Voted for soil-bank plan and worked for an increase in both corn and wheat acreage allotments. Since agriculture is one of the vital segments of our American economy, I HAVE VOTED FOR ALL LEGISLATION I FELT WOULD BE BENEFICIAL TO THE FARMER."

TRUTH:

Mr. Gray ranks 17th among the 19 majority members of the Public Works Committee. An examination of the Congressional Record of April 27, 1956 (the date of the Highway bill) fails to disclose that he took any active part in the floor debate. He was one of 388 Congressmen who voted in the affirmative. THERE IS NO PROVISION IN THE NEW LAW FOR A 4-LANE EXPRESSWAY THROUGH THE 25TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT. If a highway is directed through a specific Congressional District in any state, it is due to the natural line of travel selected by the State, and approved by the Bureau of Public Roads, and cannot be accredited to the efforts of any one individual. The Bureau reports that these major routes were selected and approved by the Bureau in 1947. Cong. Gray came to the House in 1955.

During the 84th Congress, the House passed, on June 27, 1956, a bill (H. R. 7886) to increase rates of, and liberalize basic pay of, non-service connected pensions and service-connected compensation. The vote was 364 yeas, 51 nays, 1 present, and 16 not voting. Cong. Gray was one of the 364 voting in the affirmative. THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD OF THAT DATE DISCLOSES THAT HE TOOK NO PART IN THE FLOOR DEBATE. He is not a member of the House Veterans Affairs Committee. The House also passed, on July 16, 1956, another bill (H. R. 12038) increasing rates of compensation for service-connected disabilities, and to increase dependency allowances. Cong. Gray's actions were exactly the same as above. NO MORE. NEITHER OF THE ABOVE PROPOSALS CAN BE CONSIDERED AS A "COMPANION" BILL TO H. R. 6153, TO WHICH HE REFERS. THE COMMITTEE TOOK NO ACTION ON THE GRAY BILL.

Devil's Kitchen Dam is part of the Crab Orchard project for Land Utilization authorized in 1936 for the Resettlement Administration, which was transferred to the Department of the Interior August 5, 1947. Three lakes were included in the project: Crab Orchard lake, completed in 1940, Little Grassy Lake, completed in 1947, and Devil's Lake, started but not completed due to the liquidation of the WPA program. The original construction cost of Devil's Kitchen Dam in 1936 was estimated at $1,250,000. It was estimated that it could be completed at 1955 prices for approximately $2,500,000. It is estimated that the Lake is now 60% complete, and NO ADDITIONAL AUTHORITY WAS REQUIRED TO COMPLETE, OTHER THAN APPROPRIATION.

On April 17, 1956, Senator Everett M. Dirksen announced that the Senate Appropriations Committee had approved $1 million for construction on Devil's Kitchen Dam for fiscal year 1957, and an additional $1 million for forestry research. The records show that THE AMENDMENT PROVIDING THOSE FUNDS WAS SPONSORED JOINTLY BY SENATOR CLEMENTS OF KENTUCKY AND SENATOR DIRKSEN, BOTH MEMBERS OF THE SENATE COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS. Congressman Gray is not a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

The House, on July 13, 1956, by a voice vote suspended the rules and passed, with an amendment, S. 3982, which had passed the Senate June 18, 1956, to provide for the maintenance of production of tungsten, asbestos, fluorspar, etc., in the United States, territories and possessions. ACCORDING TO THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD OF JULY 13, 1956, CONG. GRAY TOOK NO PART IN THE DEBATE ON THIS BILL. He is not a member of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs which handled the bill in the House, and is not a member of the Appropriations Committee. The records show that SEN. EVERETT M. DIRKSEN FIRST INTRODUCED THE FLUORSPAR PROPOSAL (S. 1576) ON MARCH 30, 1955, AND ON MAY 9, 1956, INTRODUCED AN AMENDMENT TO A BILL BY SENATOR MURRAY AND OTHERS TO INCLUDE FLUORSPAR, AND ON JUNE 4, 1956, CO-SPONSORED S. 3982, WHICH BECAME PUBLIC LAW 733, APPROVED BY THE PRESIDENT JULY 19, 1956. Congressman Gray introduced his bill on June 6, 1956, AFTER it was presented in the Senate.

H. R. 2851 was introduced January 24, 1955, by Congressman Jennings. THERE WAS NO CO-SPONSOR SINCE RULES OF THE HOUSE PROHIBIT CO-SPONSORS ON BILLS. Cong. Gray is not a member of the Committee on Agriculture in the House, which handled the bill.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Some folk travel by air and cover several thousand miles in a day. Others go by train or bus or boat. Some walk, and occasionally a person swims or skates or cycles.

In any case we move from one place to another in our daily way through life. We go from a starting point to a destination whether we speed or crawl. The important factor which we must consider is that we reached our goal and accomplished our mission.

Occasionally we become so concerned with "the way" that we overlook the objective. We deplore the means and miss the end. We lose our tempers and our reason, and are unable to act effectively toward the result we had desired.

As we go through our daily routines we must learn to take the detours and the hardships with our eyes set on the ideal. There are some who criticize this process as visionary. They characterize idealism as unrealistic. They are the ones who see the dirt, feel the pain, and shout for practicality.

Let us not overlook reality. Let us help others over their pitfalls. Let us relieve suffering where we find it. But—
Let us keep our sights on heaven and the reality of God beyond the mundane ways we have to travel. We can reach our goals if we determine the end which we are going to attain.

SECRETARY OF STATE

In 1953, your Secretary of State, Charles F. Carpentier, successfully fought for the passage of the New Illinois Drivers' License Law... hailed by traffic experts as one of the best in the nation.

Since that time Secretary Carpentier has been foremost in the battle for public safety. Evidence of his aggressive leadership and intelligent administration is shown by the fact that he has revoked, suspended or cancelled the driving privileges of more than 33,000 drunken, reckless or negligent drivers!

One of them might have killed you... or someone dear to you!

During the time that Charles F. Carpentier has been in office, hundreds of thousands more vehicles have crowded onto Illinois highways—yet the death rate on our highways has not appreciably increased while the national average is up 8%!

Paoli Rosi Meets 'Toothpick' Brown In TV Bout Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lightweights Paoli Rosi of Italy and Henry (Toothpick) Brown of Philadelphia, billed as "two hungry fighters with everything to gain and nothing to lose," meet in a nationally televised 10-round bout at Capital Arena tonight.

Rosi, called a "frustrated opera singer" by his manager, Charley Johnston, is favored at 7-5. He has won 22 of 25 bouts, 10 by knockouts. He has won 12 of 13 fights since coming to the United States in 1952, knocking out his last four opponents.

Brown, an aggressive slugger, scored one-round knockouts in each of his last two bouts. He kayoed his last opponent, L. C. Morgan, with one punch to end a furious first round exchange.

The bout will be televised at 8 p. m. over Station WSIL on Channel 22.

Boy, 9, Invited To Football Game By Illinois Squad

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Nine-year-old Steve Gilbert will attend the Illinois-Wisconsin football game as the guest of the Illinois football squad.

The youngster received the invitation Thursday when he attended a workout of the team.

Steve was asked to practice after Coach Ray Eliot read a letter to the squad in which the boy said he promised himself "on cub scout honor" to give every Illinois player a dime if they beat Michigan State.

Steve said he made the promise while listening to a radio broadcast of the Illinois-Michigan State game.

Four one-dollar bills accompanied the letter to Eliot which explained: "I don't know for sure how many men there are, so I am sending $4 of my own money for 40 men. Would you please give it to them and tell me if you need more."

In appreciation of Steve's offer, the squad presented him with the Michigan State game ball.

SPORTS

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Included in the class of 1956 at the Eldorado high school were the "first 15" of last season's football team and when the squad of hopefuls for the current edition of the Eagles reported to Coach Al Adams there were only seven letter winners included. And the squad lacked size, too.

Knowing this, most all Eldorado fans would have settled for a couple of victories this season and looked forward to next year.

Now, with the season rapidly running out, those same fans are going to be mighty disappointed if the Eagles fail to win both of their remaining games and close out the 1956 schedule unbeaten.

Those inexperienced lightweights that reported for grid practice late in August had something that couldn't be seen by the fans—the boys' had heart and spirit, plus speed and these three things have been parlayed into a great record of seven victories in seven starts.

Last Friday Eldorado played host to highly regarded, once beaten Cairo. This was said to be the sternest test yet. But the Eagles took it in stride, winning 25-7.

They won by keeping alive the burning desire to win. Playing on even terms with their much heavier opponents for three quarters, Eldorado completely demoralized Cairo with a 19-point last quarter spurge.

And the Eagles gained a host of new friends and backers, especially from Harrisburg football fans.

With the Bull Dogs far from home playing at Wood River, many local people made the short trip to Eldorado to get a look at Egypt's only unbeaten and untied team.

And they liked what they saw.

But tonight is another game. And again it can be said, "this is the sternest test" of the season for Eldorado.

Eldorado travels to Benton to meet the mighty Rangers, once beaten and once tied in seven starts. The tie was to Centralia, 13-13, and the loss was suffered upstate, 26-6, at Danville.

Last week while Eldorado was taking Cairo into camp Benton was grinding out a decisive 20-0 victory at Mt. Vernon's expense.

Using straightaway power plays Benton pushed and shoved Mt. Vernon all over the field, the Rangers accounting for 14 first downs to five. Benton gained 233 yards to Mt. Vernon's 74. And the Benton defense was so strong that Mt. Vernon never advanced within the 25-yard line and was within the 30 only once.

So it looks like tonight's game will be a defensive gem. Eldorado has played top notch defense all season, using speed in the line to stop the other team before it could get a play started.

During the past seven weeks Eldorado and Benton have met two common opponents and in each case the Eagles hold the advantage. Benton won from Carmi 27-0. Eldorado won from Carmi 41-0. Benton beat Cairo 26-20 and Eldorado won from Cairo 25-7.

Other Eldorado victories have been 25-12 over Anna, 33-0 from McLeansboro, 29-14 from Harrisburg, over Christopher 32-0 and a close one from West Frankfort 13-12.

The remainder of Benton's record—tied Centralia 13-13, won from Marion 28-20, lost to Danville 26-6, beat Herrin 26-19 and downed Mt. Vernon 20-0.

Eldorado Coach Al Adams states he expects to be at near peak strength, with only Don Gwaltney a question mark and he is ready for limited service.

The top ten scorers in southern Illinois following last week's high school football games were: L. Fequay, Eldorado, 94; Gualdoni, Herrin, 90; Norwood, Centralia, 80; Lewis, Anna, 76; Gateley, McLeansboro, 68; Fricke, Chester, 67; Hunter, Carbondale, 63; Kessler, Centralia, 60; Merriwether, Marion, 60, and Anderson of Marion, Guley of Marion and Hooper of Murphysboro all tied for the tenth spot with 54 points each.

Fewer Geese At Crab Orchard

MARION, Ill. (UP)—The goose hunting season opens Monday but prospects for hunters at Illinois' largest man-made lake aren't as bright as a year ago.

Eugene Crawford, project manager at the Crab Orchard Lake National Wildlife Refuge, said a recent count showed there were only 32,000 geese at the lake. That's 10,000 less than a year ago.

And warm weather has kept the duck population count down to a paltry 6,500, Crawford said.

Water is so scarce on Mars that its white polar caps are thought by astronomers to be hoarfrost only a few inches thick.

Whereabouts of Russian Ship Carrying Athletes To Melbourne a Mystery

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Olympic officials, after assuring the world that the games will be held "under any circumstances," turned their attention today to the "disappearance" of a Russian ship carrying athletes to Melbourne.

The 16,000-ton Russian merchantman Gruzia left Odessa for Melbourne Oct. 9. It was carrying 91 Russians, 17 Hungarians, two Czechs and 30 reporters.

The ship is believed to be somewhere off the west coast of Australia but local officials have received no replies to radio messages sent to the Gruzia requesting the date and time of arrival.

(The United Press cabled the Gruzia Thursday requesting information of its whereabouts but received no reply.)

Meanwhile, speculation was ripe concerning how the Hungarians aboard the Gruzia were enjoying their trip with the Russians, whom other members of the Hungarian team were quoted as calling "murderers" upon leaving Budapest earlier this week.

Most observers here conceded that the Russian ship "will remain behind schedule" until the international situation is clarified.

However, more than one official admitted that neither the Hungarian uprising nor the "police action" in the Middle East will interfere with the Olympics.

"The games will be held under any circumstances," said Sir William Bridgeford, who is an ex-commander-in-chief in Korea and now is serving as chief executive officer of the Olympics.

"The Olympics are an international movement," stated committee delegate Lewis Lutton. "We are unconcerned and uninterested in politics."

Regarding reports that the tense Middle East situation might force cancellation of the games, Edgar Tanner, secretary of the organizing committee, said, "That is just war mongering; people who even think like that are alarmists."

Day of the Outlaw

By Lee Wells

Copyright 1955, by Lee Wells. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

The main road to the few stores of Bitter was widened by travel, beaten flat and packed by hard hooves. Thin ice glistened on Squaw and Winter Creeks but the Picket River flowed like a dark snake, its waters a chilled, steel gray.

Travel was never heavy in this valley, even in the best weather. But now that the storm was passing, and in the snow, two riders headed toward Bitter.

The two men were almost identical in size, both deep-chested, broad-shouldered men who had met the challenge of this grim land and were quietly conquering it. Dan Murdock was the shorter of the two by a scant inch. The tan of summer had faded but his long, flatplaned face was dark and, although he was clean-shaven, the jaws still held a bluish cast. His chin was mallet square and stubborn, offset by wide lips that quirked slightly as though he inwardly smiled at some secret joke. His nose was long and straight, bisecting high cheekbones and brown eyes.

Blaise Starrett's pale eyes held hard splinters of light as they swept the white world. He had that way of looking at a man, a horse or a mountain, his lids almost closed as though he hid an inner cynicism, an unbending facet of his personality best kept to himself.

Dan pulled off his gloves to fashion a smoke. He shook out tobacco and papers, working fast for the air had a bite to it. Dan Murdock finished rolling the cigarette and scratched a match against his spur rowel. After he took a deep drag, he added, "You're too serious, Blaise. No man's arms are long enough to go around this valley."

Starrett's horse shied at its shadow and jumped sideways. The tall man controlled the animal with a quick pressure of his knees, then fell in beside Murdock. His glance was long and searching and it was a moment before he spoke.

"You've been my foreman for five years, but you still don't give much of a hoot, do you?"

"I'm an easy man to fire," Dan said and dropped his cigarette in the snow. "Is that what you want, Blaise?"

"No!" His voice softened. "I want to grow, Dan. I want Star to grow. I want to know if you plan on growing with Star."

"Never make plans," Dan said dryly. "That's why I take time for fun." He laughed, a soft, easy sound that carried in the stillness. "You don't want HC range, Blaise. Hal Crane won't sell. He's told you that before."

Starrett snorted. "He'll sell. Don't forget, Dan, every man has a price."

Dan crossed his gloved hands on the saddle horn and watched his boss.

"Sure," Dan said. "Once you were content with four sections and 60 head. Then it had to be 12 sections and 200 head. You want the whole valley, Blaise?"

"Maybe I'll get it," Starrett said flatly. "I mean it, Dan. . . make up your mind. Either quit . . . or stand behind me."

Dan's lips pursed. Momentarily he toyed with the idea of quitting, then dismissed it. He had the long past to think about, and a man like Starrett was not easily put aside. Starrett and he had ridden a thousand hills together, but Starrett was the ambitious one and Dan did not envy him. Starrett, for old time's sake, had made him foreman five years ago and in his own peculiar way Dan Murdock had appreciated it.

He smiled and Starrett's edginess vanished. "What are we squabbling about?"

"Darned if I know, Dan. I'm jumpy," Starrett raked his horse around and they moved on. "I don't want a fight with Crane. But I won't duck one, either."

"Then either let Crane alone or pay him a fair price."

They rode the remaining miles in silence, each deep in his own thoughts. At last they saw Bitter ahead. Snow camouflaged the village and it was revealed only by the dark, exposed walls of the buildings or the glint of light on glass as the sun came out.

They passed Larry Teter's house to the right and Dan rode more erect as they approached Phil Preston's lumber yard. He threw a searching glance at the narrow office window, hopeful of a glimpse of Paula. But he didn't see her.

To the right was Larry's barbershop and undertaking parlor, next the Wyoming Bar, its hitch-rack empty, the long pole inches deep in undisturbed snow. He turned his horse with Starrett's toward Frazin's General Store to the left. They reined in and Starrett immediately swung out of the saddle.

Dan remained for a moment, looking back beyond George Gorton's blacksmith shop to the lumber yard, now almost wholly hidden. He had the half-formed hope that Paula might step out into the street. Instead, Clay Majors called and Dan half turned to wave a greeting toward the livery stable across the street. "Got empty stalls for these crowsbats?"

"What else but empty in this weather?" Clay demanded. "Bring 'em over any time."

Dan nodded and circled the rack, stepped up on the plank sidewalk, the packed snow and thin scum of ice crunching under his boots. He followed Starrett into the store and, once inside the heat from the pot-bellied stove midway of the big room struck him like a palpable thing. He hastily pulled off his gloves and opened his jacket wider, watching Vic Franzin and his son, Bob, listening to Starrett and nodding. There was always something fawning in the manner of these two men that bothered Dan so that he could never talk to them for long without wanting to walk off.

He saw Ernie Frazin standing behind the notions counter.

"What brings you to town?" she asked. Her voice was low, impersonal. She was but half a head shorter than Dan, a statuesque woman in her middle twenties, made vivid by the shining black hair that framed her olive face. A really beautiful woman, if you could get beyond that wall of ice about her.

"Nothing like bucking 30 miles of snow to see the big town." Her smile in reply was a faint lift of the lips, a moment of warmth.

"You took a bad bargain. Dad could warn you about that."

"Well, Dan," Vic said in a hearty voice, "I didn't think you or Blaise would get out in this weather."

"Oh, we made it," Dan's voice clipped. Vic Frazin was short and rotund, his belly accented by his black work apron. His head was round, balding, leaving a fringe of wiry black hair, streaked with white, over each batlike ear. His face was heavily scored, the lines deep in the putty-colored skin. His smile, gold-toothed, was wide and friendly, but the eyes were shrewd and weighing and a man could make his choice as to which he would believe.

Nor was his son, Bob, much better—just younger and less ugly. He too had the putty nose and his eyes shifted or narrowed as though he sensed a bargain or a close deal downwind. Dan was glad when Starrett joined them and gave the supply order. Dan mumbled something about stabling the horses.

"Better Dan," Starrett agreed. "We'll stay over till morning. No use bucking the snow at night."

The stable had the good smell of hay and horseflesh, of old leather and comfortable dust. Clay closed the doors behind Dan as he led the horses to empty stalls at the rear. He was stocky and broad with a face like the animals he kept, brown eyes watery and bulging, teeth large and yellow.

"You'n Blaise come just in time before the mud holed you up. So did Hal Crane and a couple of his riders."

"Hal's in town?"

"Over at the Wyoming Bar, last I seen. I reckon you'n Blaise will run into 'em."

"Yes," Dan said slowly. "I guess we will." He smiled to hide his sudden worry and stepped outside.

He looked at the closed, silent door of the Wyoming Bar, noting idly how the wide veranda made a deep, contrasting shadow on the porch. He shoved his hands in his pockets and pushed away from the building to return to the store.

He glimpsed the girl a split second before his shoulder struck her. Her smile changed to a startled O as she staggered, her foot sliding on a patch of packed snow, and she fell toward Dan.

He caught her and her hands gripped his sleeves. Her fingers sank into his arms, held for a long second. She pushed herself away and, with a laugh, adjusted the perk little bonnet on her corn-silk hair. She wore a long, gray coat, trimmed at neck and hem with thin, cheap fur. It and the black, buttoned shoes were marked by snow.

Lakers Defeat Royals, 98-97

By United Press

Whitey Skoog, one of the smallest players in the National Basketball Association at five-feet, 11-inches and generally considered one of the better play-makers, turned scorer Thursday night to lead the Minneapolis Lakers to their first win of the current season.

The Lakers, defeated in their other two starts, pulled away from the Rochester Royals in the final period at Johnstown, Pa., to gain a 97-98 victory and little Skoog wound up as the leading scorer with 20 points. It was the only game scheduled.

Big Clyde Lovellette was second high scorer with 17 points, while Jack Twyman and Richie Reagan paced the losers with 15 points each.

The construction of several huge woolen mills in South Carolina has made Charleston a leading port of entry for raw wool. Most of the wool comes from Australia and New Zealand.
